

Some Facts Concerning Fertilizers.

In view of the wide-spread and constantly increasing use of commercial fertilizers in the State of Alabama, it seems well to place before the public a few simple facts concerning those.

Of the some twelve or fourteen elements used by plants, only three—nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash—are ever so deficient as to require application. A word as to the function of each of these may not be inappropriate.

Nitrogen, which is most often secured in the form of cotton seed meal, dried blood and nitrate of soda, produces stalk and leaf growth in all crops. This is the most expensive of the three fertilizing elements, costing as it does at present more than 20 cents a pound.

Phosphoric acid produces always the opposite effect of nitrogen—that is, instead of promoting stalk and leaf growth its function is the production of fruit and the hastening of maturity. The present price of phosphoric acid is approximately 6 cents per pound. These two elements are used or most of the upland soils of Alabama.

Potash, the third element, is the least deficient of the three and its main functions seems to lie in producing plant vigor and in the prevention of disease. Generally speaking, applications of potash have not paid on Alabama soils for corn nor with cotton except where there has been a tendency to "black rust."

If the above facts are borne in mind in the purchase of commercial fertilizers one cannot go far wrong. As a concrete illustration, let us suppose that we have deep sandy soil which grows a very small cotton stalk and is somewhat subject to rust. It is evident that we need a fertilizer that will produce a larger stalk and at the same time prevent rust. To secure these results we must apply some cotton seed meal or some other form of nitrogen, about 100 pounds of kainit per acre, and also some phosphoric acid to produce the fruit. A fertilizer mixture for the best result on this type of land would consist of say 150 pounds of cotton seed meal, 150 pounds of 10% acid phosphate and 100 pounds of kainit per acre, applied just before planting.

As another illustration let us take a piece of land that produces a cotton stalk say 3 or 4 ft. high. If we are to plant this land in cotton again we may readily deduce it does not stand in need of a nitrogenous fertilizer. From two to three hundred pounds of 10% acid phosphate per acre for the production of fruit will about meet the needs of such a soil, plus 100 pounds of kainit per acre if there is a tendency to rust.

An important fact to be borne in mind in fertilizing corn is that it always requires a heavier application of nitrogen than cotton on the same grade of land. All cereals and grasses are heavy users of nitrogen. On a piece of land that last year produced say one half feet high, about the proper proportion would be two parts cottonseed meal and one part acid phosphate, applied just before planting. On better grades of soil, increase the phosphoric acid and decrease the nitrogen content.

All Alabama soils respond to the use of stable manures, leguminous crops, cottonseed meal, dried blood and nitrate of soda. The use of acid phosphate on heavy, black prairie soils is of somewhat doubtful value, but some experiments indicate that it will probably pay on red prairies, and it will certainly give good results on practically all the other soil types of Alabama. Kainit may be profitably used on cotton on any land where there is a tendency to rust.

Generally speaking, all fertilizers should be applied at or before planting time, the most notable

#LBAL, ALA., JAN. 17, 1911.

Proposals to increase the salaries of several state officers will be brought before the present legislature. If you will notice it is a common practice and easy to create new offices and increase salaries, but we very seldom ever hear of any proposals to abolish any office and never to decrease a salary.

Mr. Edison, the great inventor has issued a note of warning against basing all values on gold, and making long time notes payable in gold. He says a process for making gold is likely to be discovered in the near future and when it is gold will be worth less than brass or copper since it is not so useful as either of these metals, and the commercial world will be overturned.

The committee assignments given South-east Alabama insure that this section will have a hand in the law-making of the Legislature.

It is remarkable that the class citizens who pay the least taxes and would receive the greatest proportionate benefit from goods roads, furnishes about the only opposition to them.

Gov. Comer killed the bill to increase the salary of Alabama's governor to $7,500 a year. He gave as his reason that it was a violation of the constitution to increase the salary of any one while they were in office, and that Mr. O'Neal was virtually in office though he had not taken the oath.

Mr. Comer did right and his construction of the spirit of the constitution will meet with approval. While in this instance it might have been well to grant an increase, it would have set a bad precedent, and one that unscrupulous men would have not failed to take advantage of. A man coming into the governor's chair has a powerful influence, and if he cared to could use this influence and the patronage of his office to railroad a bill through almost any legislature. We are confident that Mr. O'Neal did not attempt such a thing as this, but other men will be elected governors in the course of time that may be less particular as to their methods. Therefore we think it fortunate for Alabama that she had a governor with backbone strong enough to bray criticism and smash this thing at its birth as Mr. Comer does.

Supposed Murder at Pink.
Geneva Reaper.

The western end of Geneva county, in the neighborhood of Pink, Coffee county, is greatly excited over what is supposed to be the most inhuman murder of an infant. From people living in that section of the county it is learned that the daughter William Hall gave birth to an illegitimate child about two weeks ago. Last Wednesday the infant was reported to have died, and the following day it was buried. Rumors of foul play were so persistent that a coroner's jury was impaneled and the body of the child was disinterred Saturday. An examination of the remains revealed the fact that the infant's head had been broken. It is stated by reliable parties that when the disinterment of the body was proposed, William Hall, the father of the child's mother, objected very strenuously, and threatened to do bodily harm to the first man who stuck a spade
in the ground.

Upon the discovery that the child's death had been caused by coup, Hall was sent for and charged with the murder of the infant. Hall is at present in jail at Elba.
